Learning content

The seminar provides an overview of sustainability in the supply chains of the textile and apparel industry. In addition to the complexities of the industry, social changes, common terminology, current laws & regulations as well as voluntary labels will be explained. The various aspects of sustainability are vividly demonstrated along the entire value chain, from fiber to finished product. Within an interactive workshop the participants will experience textiles and sustainability hands-on.

Target group

For newcomers to the topic of sustainability in the textile and apparel industry, employees from purchasing, sales, product development or quality assurance as well as product management & marketing.

Course format

2-day training with theoretical and practical phases incl. workshop and machine demonstrations in the technical center of the Institute of Textile Technology at RWTH Aachen University.

* Prices are per person and excl. VAT
If you make a binding booking 8 weeks before the date, you will receive a 10% early booking discount.
